These are challenging economic times and the tools and resources gained from the annual LMCI Finishing Industries Forum (FIF) are needed now more than ever.

This year's FIF is first and foremost the place where our industries meet for success. It's an extensive event, made up of plenary sessions and industry workshops featuring inspiring keynote speakers. The industry workshops are conducted by experts and designed to address current industry issues. Secondly, FIF provides you with the opportunity to network with your peers, industry professionals, and gain valuable knowledge about issues facing our industries.

Year after year, key union officials and company executives report that the No. 1 reason they return to FIF's annual event is for the unparalleled opportunity to meet one-on-one with other successful contractors and union officials in their industries. Whether it's networking at a social event, learning in the workshops designed with our industries in mind, or seeing and talking with peers about new and familiar products to help you work more efficiently day in and day out—you won't want to be anywhere other than FIF-6!

Guest speaker sessions are designed to appeal to every attendee. Listen to compelling plenary speakers offering challenges and new insights that will focus on key areas of industry development. Attendees will also have the opportunity to meet with the LMCI Co-Chairs; IUPAT General President James Williams and FCA Chairman Ed Smith. Their discussions will focus on the most pressing issues facing our industries as well as answer questions from attendees about creating and maintaining effective labor - management relationships.

We have designed this industry event to make certain you are armed with every tool made available by the LMCI, IUPAT and FCA to increase market share, field the best trained workforce and successfully navigate the legislative and regulatory issues in today's industries.

As a leading contractor in the finishing industries, your participation is crucial to the betterment of the finishing trades.

Together, we will make certain our success continues to grow in the years to come.
